The OpenSuSE Roadmap for their 10.1 release schedule has been updated: It now appears that a RC3 might be in the works and possibly announced on Apr 28.

It's still being quite vague about the final release date by sticking by the open source credo, 'It will be released when ready.' Actually the Roadmap states, "Further release candidates and the final goldmaster will be announced when ready." There were no further announcements to the mailing lists or forums either at this time.
